

FIGURE 1 (PRIOR ART)

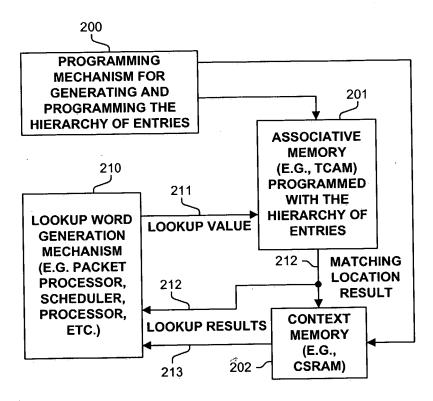

FIGURE 2A

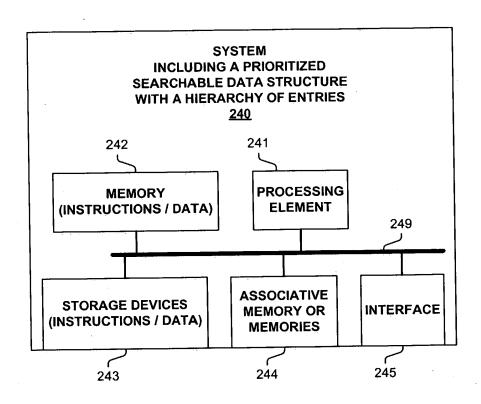

FIGURE 2B

PRIORITIZED SEARCHABLE DATA STRUCTURE (E.G., ASSOCIATIVE MEMORY ENTRIES) 300 - 301 GROUP OF ELEMENTS - 1 - 302 ELEMENT DEFINITION - 1 - 303 GROUP OF ELEMENTS - 2 - 304 ELEMENT DEFINITION - 2 SEARCH ORDER

FIGURE 3A

GROUP OF ELEMENTS - N

ELEMENT DEFINITION - N

- 309

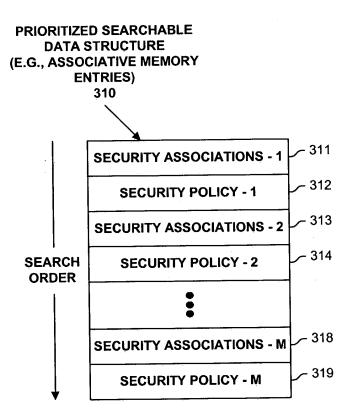

FIGURE 3B

PRIORITIZED
SEARCHABLE DATA STRUCTURE
(E.G., ASSOCIATIVE MEMORY ENTRIES)
330

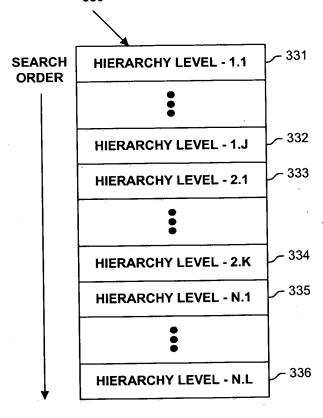

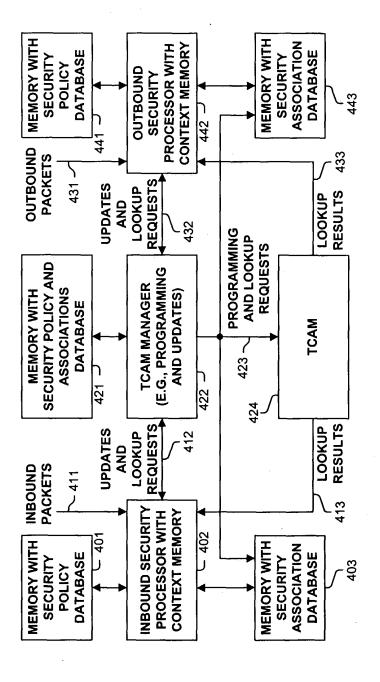

FIGURE 3C

IPSEC MECHANISM FIGURE 4

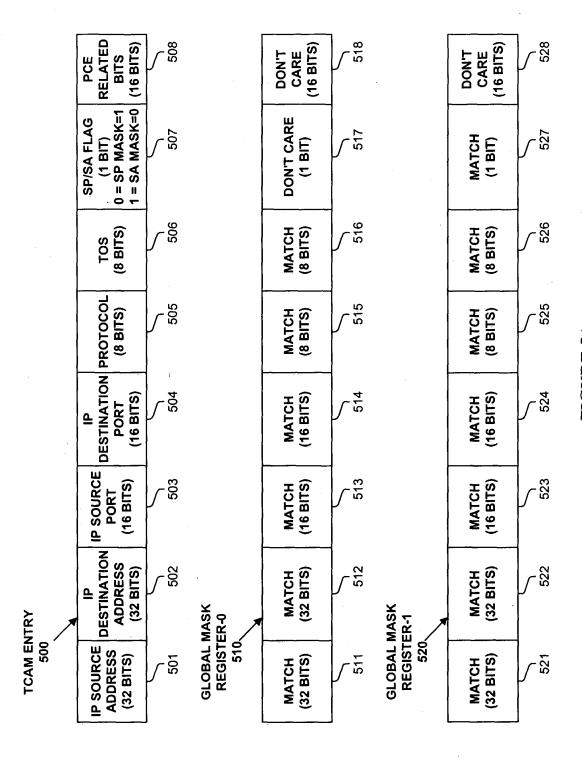

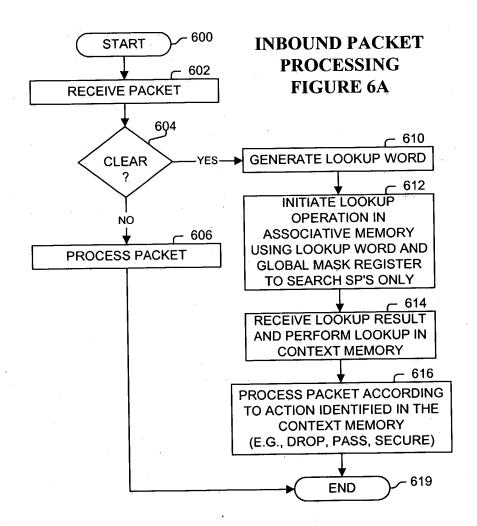

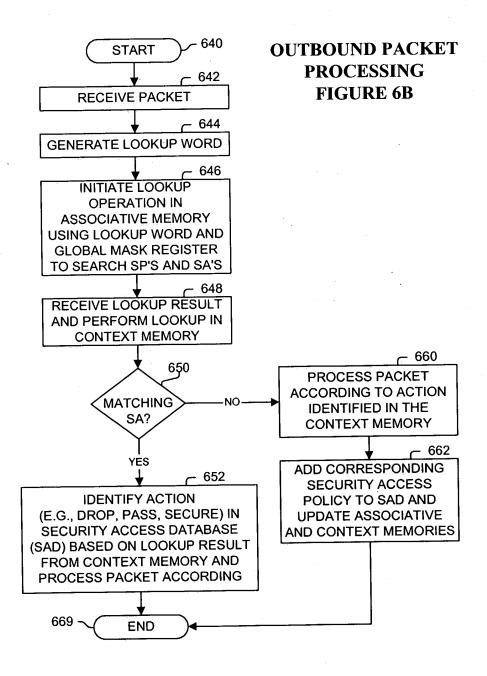

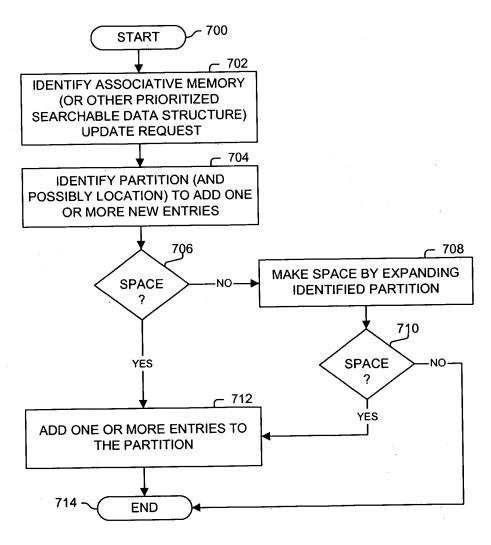

FIGURE 5A

```
// for 16 bit fields, the results can be up to 30 TCAM entries, and the wip stacks must be 17 entries
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         if (highTry <= highIncl && lowTry >= lowIncl) { // entry covers a subset of range - save it push (valueStack, prefix), push (maskStack, mask); else if (lowTry > highIncl || highTry < lowIncl) { // entry covers a disjoint set - forget it
                                                                                                            // Keep four stacks: two for results (value and masks), two for work in progress: bit and prefix
                                                                                                                                                                                                                        // deep. (seems to be 2(N-1) worst case entries, but I have not generated a proof!)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         push (prefixStack, prefix), push (bitStack, bit - 1);
push (prefixStack, prefix | 1 << (bit - 1)), push (bitStack, bit - 1);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        else { // entry covers some value inside and outside range - split it push (prefixStack, 0), push (bitStack, precision); // 16 for port numbers do {
Arguments: highIncl, lowIncl; // range is [highIncl, lowIncl]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 highTry = prefix | mask, lowTry = prefix & ~mask;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                prefix = pop (prefixStack), bit = pop (bitStack);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    } while (StackNotEmpty (prefixStack));
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        mask = (1 << bit) - 1;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    // do nothing
```

SPLITTING ENTRIES INTO MULTIPLE ENTRIES FIGURE 5B

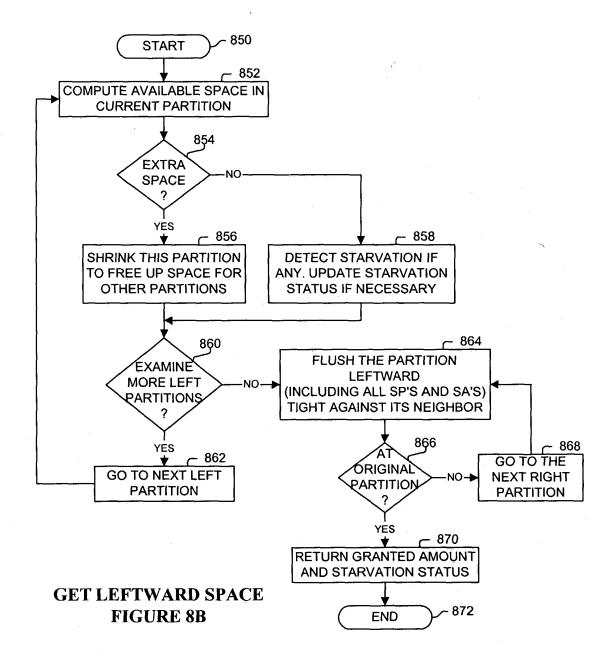

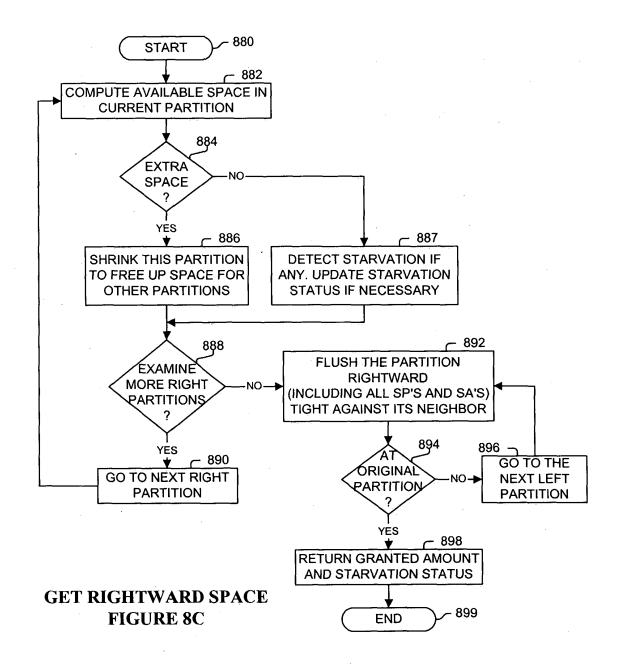

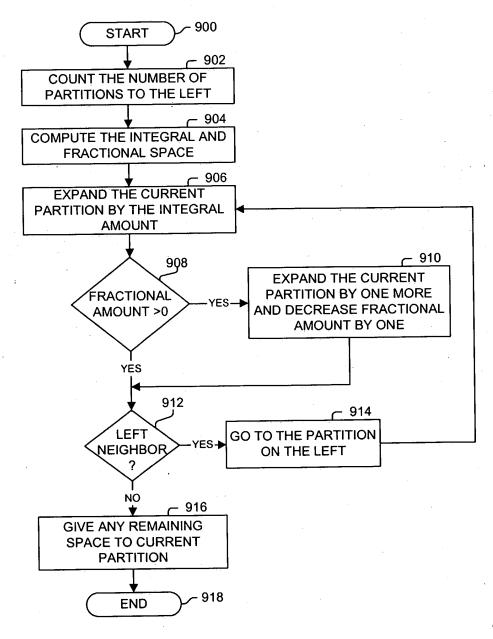

ADDING ENTRY FIGURE 7

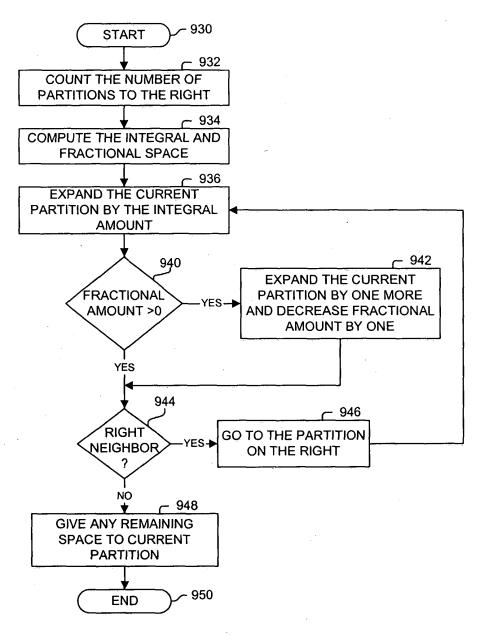

FEED STARVING LEFT PARTITION FIGURE 9A

FEED STARVING LEFT PARTITION FIGURE 9B